

---

The Commonwealth

Posted by TLJ - 2007/10/08 06:37

---

Do we really care that we might have to apply to join it (which I doubt) post-independence ?

=====

Re:The Commonwealth

Posted by Kinghob - 2007/10/08 11:34

---

TLJ wrote:

Do we really care that we might have to apply to join it (which I doubt) post-independence ?

Nope, though I also doubt that we would have to re-apply.

=====

Re:The Commonwealth

Posted by dws - 2007/10/08 12:29

---

It's another non-story from Labour - "You'll be sent to Coventry from our happy wee family...outcast...how will you cope....naebody'll like ye...."

I doubt HM will take the same view. This is just another example of the "It can't be done" cringe, and people are seeing through it now.

=====

Re:The Commonwealth

Posted by Brenna1508 - 2007/10/08 18:12

---

Perhaps the question should be whether we would want to join.

If we decided we did want to I can't see any of the Royals denying us entry - after all they seem to like their holidays in Balmoral.

=====