
Feart

Posted by woodysdad - 2008/01/27 20:25

Is there any chance of having an index page we can go page to and navigate from? I get mixed up and I'm feart about getting ANOTHER e-mail about duplicate posts:blush:

=====

Re:Feart

Posted by TLJ - 2008/01/27 20:30

woodysdad wrote:

Is there any chance of having an index page we can go page to and navigate from? I get mixed up and I'm feart about getting ANOTHER e-mail about duplicate posts:blush:

I'm not sure what you mean, WD.....

=====

Re:Feart

Posted by DoricMan - 2008/01/28 17:11

woodysdad wrote:

Is there any chance of having an index page we can go page to and navigate from? I get mixed up and I'm feart about getting ANOTHER e-mail about duplicate posts:blush:I use Firefox to navigate the forum, as follows. You can right click on say "Scottish Politics", and open in the link in a new tab, then you will get a list of the threads. Do another right click on the topic of interest, and open the link in a new tab, then read it and/or post your comments. This has your trail of right clicks neatly stacked on your desktop, each with their associated tab, and any or all can closed as you wish.

So right click on the link, open it in a new tab and bob's or TLJ is your uncle "woodsycdad". Hope this helps.

=====

Re:Feart

Posted by BoB - 2008/01/30 22:05

So right click on the -link-, open it in a new tab and bob's or TLJ is your uncle "woodsycdad".

Oh!

Leave me out of it :P :laugh: :laugh:

=====