
My name has been dropped on BBC Radio Scotland!!

Posted by Perisphere - 2007/08/01 01:17

Here's how: I was listening to BBC-RS earlier today when I heard them asking for suggestions of tracks to play on the upcoming instalment of GET IT ON, dedicated to records with whistling in them. You can phone them in, 'text' them in or E-mail them. I thought of three, and fired off an E-mail to Auntie. Naturally, I mentioned being here in Gassville, Arkansas and all, and put my name at the end of the E-mail.

You'll have to catch it on the 'Net as a repeat now, if they have it uploaded already. It's the 31 July programme.

I couldn't believe my ears when I heard parts of my E-mail being read on-air!! They didn't play any of my suggestions, but what the hey! I'm still over the moon as it is!

Forgive me not posting the link! Here 'tis:

If all else fails, I can post a link to a dub of the excerpt of the show I'm mentioned in, from the off-'net recording I made of it.

Hey Perisphere,
Congrats!

It's like last summer when I sent an email to the guys announcing the Scotland vs Italian Rugby game. Part of my email was read aloud along with my name and being from CF, IA. B)
